Watching

Typhoons

Nothing tracking toward Japan or Hong Kong. Three Pacific systems in early October, Choi-wan, Nolo and Koguma, all curved away from land. The October outlook is 1 to 3 typhoons approaching Japan, which is about normal. Hong Kong's season usually winds down by the end of October.

How much rain is that

Under 1 mm

A trace. Spits at most.

1 to 5 mm

Light rain. Umbrella, carry on.

5 to 15 mm

Steady rain. Wet shoes, views gone.

Over 15 mm

Heavy. Move outdoor plans.

How sure is each day

-  Firm. Within 5 days. Plan on it.
-  Fair. 6 to 10 days. The pattern is right, the timing of rain can shift a day.
-  Outlook. 11 days or more. A trend from long-range models, not a forecast. Don't move anything yet.

Which source wins: far out, every source counts the same and a split is flagged. Inside about 5 days, the local forecasters lead: the Japan Meteorological Agency, Weathernews and the Japan Weather Association in Japan, the Hong Kong Observatory in Hong Kong. The Global Forecasting Model becomes a cross-check only.
